Story Hill – Singer/Songwriters:

Writing/Essay/Journal

The acoustic songwriting duo of Storyhill, comprised of Chris Cunningham and John Hermanson, perform “Well of Sorrow” in the Wabasha Street Caves. John discusses the lyrics as celebrating the return of light and also having to do with depression. He states that a song can have multiple meanings. Have you found this to be true? How do the technical skills of Storyhill play a part in their work?
